Poetry.

The Blue and the Gray.

BY F. M. FINCH.

By the flow of the inland river,
Whence the fleets of iron had fled,
Where the blades of the grave-grass quiver,
Asleep are the ranks of the dead;
Under the sod and the dew;
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the one, the Blue;
Under the other, the Gray.

These in the robings of glory,
Those in the gloom of defeat;
All with the battle blood gory,
In the dusk of eternity meet;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the laurel, the Blue;
Under the willow, the Gray.

From the silence of sorrowful hours,
The desolate mourners go,
Lovingly laid with flowers,
Alike for the friend and the foe;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the roses, the Blue;
Under the lillies, the Gray.

So, with an equal splender,
The morning sun-rays fall,
With a touch impartially tender,
On the blossoms blooming for all;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Broidered with gold, the Blue;
Mellowed with gold, the Gray.

So, when the Summer calleth,
On forest and field of grain
With an equal murmer falleth
The cooling drip of the rain;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Wet with rain, the Blue;
Wet with rain, the Gray.

Sadly, but not with upbraiding,
The generous deed was done;
In the storm of years now fading,
No braver battle was won;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the blossoms, the Blue;
Under the garlands, the Gray.

No more shall the war cry sever,
Or the winding rivers be red;
They banish our anger forever,
When they laured the graves of our dead;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Love and tears for the Blue,
Tears and love for the Gray.

Selected Story.

Three Chicken Pies.

BY MARY GIFFORD.

Mr. Prentice took great pride in his poultry, and so it was that he stopped in the kitchen to contemplate once a fine pair of fowls that his wife was just commencing to prepare for the oven. He had weighed them alive, and weighed them again after picking, and had carefully minuted the corresponding facts to report with triumph at the next country hen convention. But still he stopped in the kitchen to have one last look at them.

"Very fine chickens, Mrs. Prentice."

He stood in the doorway as if loth to leave the object of his pride—seemingly lost in the admiring glance.

Kate came in at the opposite door.

"Mother Prentice, I want to make a chicken pie." Father and mother looked at the girl, and then at each other, in speechless amazement.

Mrs. Prentice was a model housekeeper, and Kate, her oldest daughter, had always been a grief to her housekeeper's heart. She had told Mr. Prentice hundreds of times that "Kate would never make a good housekeeper; she never seemed to want to do a thing in the kitchen."

"Tut, tut," Mr. Prentice had replied, all these hundreds of times, while he cast an admiring glance at the lady who by her eminent abilities in this respect had so smoothed the wrinkles out of his life. "Tut, tut; you never can tell what those girls will make." And then would add, slaughing: "They wouldn't be worth two and sixpence apiece if there wasn't the making of an old woman in them!"

Another look would assure Mrs. Prentice that the remark was intended as a personal compliment, and it was really wonderful how much more hopeful she at once became of Kate.

Kate, with her vigorous mind, her strong will, and her independent habits of thought, was her father's special pet, and he educated her after his own heart. He had determined that if she had any "family," as Mrs. Prentice termed it, she should have knowledge, which he knew would be a stonger power. The best schools had done what they could for Kate, and she had amply repaid her fond father's efforts, and satisfied his ambition. The school days had been over about three months, and Kate had been passing a gay season at home. Mr. and Mrs. Prentice had felt that she should have a little time to herself before she entered the harder school of busy life that was to be before her as teacher, but those three months between school going and school teaching had done for Kate what they had done for many another girl in the same idle time, and there she stood in the doorway, with all her years of book knowledge and kitchen ignorance behind her, announcing her intention of making that mysterious compound, that chef d'œuvre of accomplished housekeepers, chicken pie.

Mrs. Prentice turned pale; she thought Kate a little crazy.

Mr. Prentice smiled. There was a twinkle in his eye.

"Let her try, mother; let her try; I told you the old woman was in her," and with a very quick step and a merry heart, he was gone too much absorbed in his own fancies for even another look at the chickens. But he talked aloud as he went down the street.

"I wonder who it can be. I'm sure I don't know, but it must be somebody, for when a girl that never could endure the sight of a kitchen begins to want to learn how to cook, it's as sure there's somebody else in the question as it is when you see one little brown bird building a nest in spring, that there's a brighter, gayer bird not far off, that is equally interested in that sample of housebuilding.

Mr. Prentice was right.

"But Kate," said her mother, "you surely don't mean to do it alone; you'll spoil it as sure as the world; you never made even a common pie, and it takes a real knock to make a chicken pie."

"I surely do," said Kate, "and if I spoil it I spoil it. And what's more, I must do it all myself, and you have got to go entirely out of the kitchen—yes, out of the house. You may go over to Aunt Martha's and spend the day, so that the people who eat the pie may be sure that I did it all myself. The fact is (and here comes the fact about which Mr. Prentice was so curious) "Charley Adams is coming here, to dinner to-morrow. He's always wishing for one of his mother's chicken pies, so I'm going to make one for him."

With a thousand injunctions about the crust and the gravy, and the fire and the oven, and with many misgivings, Mrs. Prentice withdrew, and Kate, her daughter, reigned in her stead.

A strange day was that, Kate's first in the kitchen. She knew no more about housework than a child, or say by way of contrast, than she did about chicken pie. But a restlessness had possessed her of late, that seemed to delight in impelling her into all sorts of queer freaks, and this was one. She had scorned a word of advice when her mother was there, but once she was gone, humbly and restless and helplessly she sought the one cook book the house afforded, and with its aid, by some means or other, when night came the pie was done. In spite of a torn dress, and a burned apron, and a steam-scalded wrist, and certain other disagreeable evidences of awkward working, Kate was radient with happiness as at last she took the pie from the oven. She thought it looked splendidly, though it was badly scorched on one side.

That had happened while she had, in process of watching and baking, dropinto a chair to rest, and thus dropped into a reverie, and had thought how if it should only be true, which she half suspected and so earnestly hoped, that Charley did love her, and if he should tell her so, and they should get married and go to housekeeping in just the coziest little house, even if Charley was poor so they couldn't afford to keep a girl, how nice it would be to do the work all herself, and now, because he liked it so, she would every day have chicken pie.

"Oh, my! it's burning!" and the reverie stopped and the oven door came down, and out came the burned pie; but as Kate looked at it proudly though a little sadly, she went back to the last sentence of the reverie and modified it somewhat, "I think I won't have it but once a week, and even if it is burned I think he would like it if I made it."

Mr. Prentice returned at evening with his wife, and was told by her of the events of the day. They went together to look at the pie.

"Oh, Mr. Prentice, I never can have such a looking pie go on my table," said the model housekeeper.

"Oh, yes, mother, it might look a good deal worse; but I will step down early to the market, and have some nice things sent home, which you will make all right, you know. We mustn't let Kate spoil all her chances by a poor dinner."

The next day came, and with it Charley Adams, and the dinner was one of Mrs. Prentice's best, so that Charley was in capital humor when he reached the pie, and declared that it was years since he had eaten such a chicken pie. He might, with equal truth, have said he had never eaten such chicken pie, for the crust was tough as well as burned, and Kate had been in a reverie while making as well as baking, so she had forgotten the salt, and it was indeed a very poor pie. But what is it that Vergil says—"Love seasons all things!"—even chicken pie.

So Charley ate it just us if it was his mother's best, and Kate was radiant with happiness.

After dinner, Mr. Prentice said slyly to his wife, "It's all right. A man must be thoroughly in love with a woman to eat such a pie as that with so good a grace."

And Mrs. Prentice said, "It's just as I always told you; Kate has no 'faculty.'"

"Tut, tut," said Mr. Prentice, once more; "never you fear. You'll see the woman in her yet."

And it was all right. Out under the stars that night Katie's reverie came true—and Charley told her once more, that he loved chicken pie, and her a great deal better, and that she and she only must make it for him all his life, and they decided about the cottage, and Katie's dreams that night were a medley of cottages, and bridal dresses, and chicken pie.

* * * * * *

They had been married a year, and the honeymoon had shone as steadily as if it had been lengthened by dispensation. But it waned at last, as it always does, and the conflict of life begun.

Let the honeymoon be longer or shorter, the first few months that follow it are as the crucible in which every woman's heart is tried as by fire, and they prove most abundantly of what metal she is. When she first wakens from the rosy dreams of love to a consciousness of some of the hard facts of life—when it dawns upon her that her hero is not exactly as she had drawn him, that he is very mortal after all and cheifly likes to be exceedingly comfortable, and considers that he has got a wife to make him so; and if she does not succeed in doing so he has been ill-used of fate, and usually expresses himself pretty energetically upon the subject; the fire turns most women to dross. A few tears are shed when they realize the fact that their loves have passed with the days that made them such, and then they lapse into indifference, and turn back to the world, and its pleasures, and seek for the light of other eyes, and all the fond dreams of "Love in a cottage" are buried forever.

Love's not precisely

But Kate was pure gold. She shed her tears like other women, and then said—"Shall I win his love and not keep it? If I fail of happiness now, it is lost for all my life; it shall be mine." And bravely did she struggle for it.

Kate's great grief was that Charley had a mother. Not but that in the course of nature he would have been expected to have, but his mother was a great cook, and Charley had become wholly possessed with the idea that no one could cook like his mother. Now Kate had made a long visit to the mother soon after her marriage, and with teaching and love's assistance rendering her the aptest of pupils, Kate had really become quite a cook herself. To this mother, who was in truth a rare cook, Kate told the story of that first chicken pie. And she took lessons now most humbly, not scorning advice as had her own mother's in the old days. So all unkown to Charley she made the pies till the kind mother said:

"I shall be quite jelous, Kate. I think you even out-do me."

So then the housekeeping began. Oh, how brave the little woman was. How she worked and worked in the kitchen day after day to make the dainties to please Charley, and Charley would come home and pay no heed to the flushed and weary face, and eat the goodies in silence, taking all as a matter of course. His mother had been such a cook it was nothing new to him; he didn't stop to think that what was easy for mother was hard enough for dear little Kate. But worse still, half the time it was:

"Kate, I do wish you would get mother to teach you to make this. She used to make it so it would melt in your mouth. This is no more like it than if it hadn't the same name."

Kate would bear up under these contrasts, which he, man that he was, never dreamed she minded, till he was safely out of the house, then up to her little room to "cry it out," and get heart to try again.

Finally, said Kate, thinking sadly of the old days, when everything was ambrosia if she made it, "I'll try a chicken pie. Mother herself says I can make that equal to her."

No sooner said than done, and when it came out of the oven, a triumph of art, Kate laughed herself as she contrasted it with that other one, and reflected—"Poor fellow, how could he eat that unsalted, burned up things."

She gathered a few flowers to adorn her table, and even put on her French print to look a little rosier herself, and then when all was ready, tried to look as if nothing was the matter—as if nothing had happened but what happened every day; tried to keep her foolish heart from beating so fast as she sat and waited for his coming, and thought how we would praise her. Wasted trouble! He came in hurriedly; did chance to notice the bright new dress, but did not think to say fondly, "This for my sake, dear?" but only said, "Got company?"

And then, as he threw himself into his dining chair—.

"Oh, chicken pie, hey?" and then ate on in silence.

Kate tried to be cheerful, though the tears were well nigh bursting from her drooping lids.

He said not a single word about the dinner till he moved back from the table, and then he said—

"It's no use talking. I tell you what it is, Kate, no body can make chicken pie but my mother!" and that was his parting word.

When Kate was alone she did not cry. She walked the floor with clenched fists and vowed "if ever she married again it should be man that never had a mother!" And she felt so weary of the struggle, and she cursed the whole race of men, and stamped her pretty foot, and bit her lips, and said, "they were thankless wretches!" And she almost wished she had taught school all her days, and never had anything to do with any of them. Then at last tears came, and after that of course she felt better, and began to find excuses for him, and, said after she knew he did not mean it. And then she tried to think what she could do next, and then she struck a bright idea, and she began to smile—and long before Charley came home she was gay as a lark: At tea she said:

"Charley, how long before you can have a little resting spell?"

"Well, that's queer, Kate," said he. "I told them at the store to-day that I was tired, and was going to take a week out. I think we'll run up in the country and give mother a surprise visit."

Kate's heart was in her mouth. This was just what she had planned, but was so fearful she couldn't bring it about.

Charley's mother was as rare a woman as a cook, so to her Kate dared to tell all her troubles, and felt sure of sympathy.

"Now, mother dear," said she, "I know that I make good things, but you know nothing tastes to grown-up folks as it does to children, and then no matter how good anything is, Charley thinks it can't be as good as his mother's and it makes me so unhappy, and you must help me to cure him."

They planned together how it should be done, and the next day for dinner they had chicken pie! Charley threw up his hat as he came in and beheld it.

"Now," said he, "you will eat chicken pie as is chicken pie!"

"Come, Kate," said he, as he helped himself again and again, "eat, don't you know that I always told you that nobody but my mother could make chicken pie!" when at last he had finished his dinner, he said:

"Now, mother, why can't you teach Kate to make as good chicken pie as you do?"

"I think instead I must take lessons of her," said his mother; "I think she goes a little ahead of me, my son, since this pie you praise so much is her making, not mine!"

Though she said not a word of reproach, the look she gave him was better than a volume of sermons, and in a moment "there fell from his eyes as if it had been scales," and he saw all Kate's tender effort; and as he drew her towards him, while her eyes were brimming with tears and smiles, he said as he kissed her—

"Forgive me, Kate."

Since that day all Kate's girlish dreams of "love in a cottage" have been more than realized, and when Charley Adams speaks of cooks he says:

"I don't know of but one woman that can beat my mother; that's my wife."

Miscellaneous.

The Human Roof and its Thatching.—If the man deserves well of his country who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, surely he who produces a glorious crop of hair on a comparatively barren scalp deserves the hearty thanks of the obliged party. All honor, therefore, to Professor E. T. Lyon, for, unquestionably, his renowned Katharion accomplishes this object. Gentlemen whose whiskers are shy of making their appearance in force, or the fibers of whose moustaches discloses those "magnificent distances" for which Washington City was once so famous, will find this Hair Persuader the most wonderful encourager of fibrous development that has ever yet been invented. Both sexes are advised to use it as, by all odds, it is the best article for improving the growth and beauty of the hair, keeping it free from scurf and dandruff, preventing it from becoming harsh, dry and gray—giving it a rich gloss and and endowing it with flexibility—that Toilet Chemistry has ever evolved from the vegetable kingdom.

In a Florida court the crier had to wake up two of the jurymen to listen to the judge's charge. They must have had a very dreamy idea of the evidence.

Reply of Senator Carpenter to Mr. Sumner.

We are sorry we do not have more for the masterly reply of Senator Carpenter to the vindictive attack made on President Grant by Mr. Sumner. After a general defense Mr. Carpenter thus refers to.

SUMNERS'S MISSTATEMENTS.

In reference to the President having surrounded himself with a military household he said that General Babcock had been assigned under an act of Congress as Commissioner of Public Buildings and Grounds. Generals Porter and Dent, who had also been aids-de-camp to General Grant during the war, were also personally his devoted friends. They had been lent, as it were, to the President, and their assignment at the White House involved no additional pay, and if they were not there they would be in the War Department doing nothing. During the administration of Andrew Johnson there was a regular military guard constantly at the White House, there was a guard at the War Department, and a guard at the house of Secretary Seward. The first night Gen. Grant slept in the White House he heard a great noise of tramping of soldiers and grounding of arms. He went down stairs and found an officer and file of men. He inquired of the officer what he was doing there. The officer said he was in charge of the guard, and had been there for months. Grant said he could take care of himself, and ordered the officer to take his men and go home, waited till they were gone, and then locked the door. He ordered away all the troops and the guards, and to-day there is not a company of soldiers on duty anywhere near the capital.

When the Senator makes these assertion that he does, it is either a deliberate truth or a deliberate falsehood. His speech was carefully prepared, studied over for days and weeks, revised, corrected, and read from print. Andrew Johnson had four army officers at the White House. Andrew Johnson was surrounded by a military household and with sentinels and guards. No one complained of this in Andrew Johnson. In that heated and angry time the men opposed to Andrew Johnson were not chary of charges against him. The household of General Grant is less in this and in every respect than that of Andrew Johnson, and yet no one ever said that the White House under Andrew Johnson had assumed the character of a military headquarters. He (Mr Carpenter) desired those who lived here and who knew the truth to bear testimony whether it is true or false that the White House has assumed the character of a military headquarters. How is the White House turned into a military headquarters? Do you see there a soldier, an orderly, a gun, a shoulder-strap? Not one.

NEPOTISM.

He (Mr. Carpenter) did not propose to waste much time on the charge of nepotism against General Grant. He was not aware of any reason why, if the brother of the Executive was capable of performing the duties of an office, he was not as much entitled to it as any other American citizen. Perhaps it may be thought different when that millenium comes when Messrs, Sumner and Schurz are installed at the White House, but in these practical days such objections are entirely too fine.

Then as to the gifts which the president has received. These were the spontaneous tribute of the American people to the insignificance of his salary. He had received gifts from the gratitude of the people just as Sherman, McClellan, or other generals had gifts for their services in war, gifts made openly and in the light of day. As to the President's returning gifts with offices, where is the proof of this? Who believes it?

SAN DOMINGO.

As to the San Domingo indictment and the charge that Gen. Grant made war upon the black Republic of Hayti. This was no small war. Both the Senators (Messrs. Sumner and Schurz) insist

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

The Democratic party is passing through the throes of dissolution. From the time when it assumed the championship of slavery to the present hour it has battled for ideas and for measures which are held in detestation by the enlightened sentiment of the age. For more than twenty years not one of its professions has struck a responsive chord in the generous heart of the people. During the latter years of its ascendency it lived upon threats and gasconade and bullying. Peacable citizens often endure much in the way of wrong and insult before accepting a conflict with a desperado. It was this aversion to joining in deadly combat which permitted the success of BUCHANAN in 1856—the last success of the Democratic party. But it had then plunged into a career of madness from which retreat was impossible. It had tried in vain to force Slavery upon the territories of the North West. It had sent blood hounds from the swamps of Texas and Louisiana to hunt down panting fugitives from bondage in the homes of Ohio and Massachusetts. Lovers of justice listened with horror to the wails from Kansas and to the pleadings of the helpless creatures who were remanded to the mercies of their masters under the provisions of the fugitive slave law.

Mistaking the patience of the North for cowardice, and emboldened by the apparent success of gasconade, the Democratic leaders in 1860 became still more imperious in their exactions. But the moral sentiment of the country had become thoroughly aroused. The edict had gone forth "hitherto mayst thou come but no further." At the fall elections they were signally beaten by a party which eight years before existed but in the germ. During this brief period the insolence of the Democracy coupled with its crimes against the most sacred of human rights, had stimulated the growth of the moral energies of the, people til a mere handful of "Free soilers' had expanded into a victorious host. We were a "Free soiler" at the beginning, and we have to this day remained true to the principles that have developed into the grand Republican Party of the nation.

But to resume: Beaten at the polls the champions of slavery rushed to arms for the purpose of destroying the Government they could no longer control. Rule or ruin was their desperate resolve. To their account are charged the blood and treasure sacrificed in the ensuing conflict.

One would think that a party organization and name so over-loaded with crime and cursed with hateful memories, would ask no other boon from an outraged public than permission to disband and disappear. The wounds of baffled tyranny and treason is but a poor commendation to the sympathies of the world. However, the issue has proved that where there is no repentance there is no shame.

The people have shown their opinion of the Democratic party by visiting upon it for twelve years a series of continuous defeats. Through Republican divisions it has indeed gained a few local and temporary advantages, but if the signs of times are to be trusted its power has departed forever.

IS IT INSINCERITY OR INSTABILITY?

In his letter accepting the Cincinnati nomination for President HORACE GREELEY says:

"Our policy should aim at local self-government and not at centralization; that the civil authority snould be supreme over the military; that the writ of habeas corpus should be jealously upheld."

All this is very true, and yet it is astonishing to find such words in Mr. GREELEY's mouth under the circumstances. For who does not know that if they mean anything, as a part of any opposition platform, they mean condemnation of recent measures of the Republican party—the Ku Klux law and its enforcement, the Federal Election law, etc., every one of which the Tribune advocated, supported and defended. No where have the charges against them of unconstitutionality and usurpation been more positively denied and scouted than by this same HORACE GREELEY. Both he and his paper were strenuous and consistent in upholding the Ku Klux law and approving its enforcement. Nor were they less emphatic as to the propriety of the Federal election law. If these things were not "centralization," then there has been no shade or color of centralization in our Government. It is simply amazing to find a man who has upheld them up to this very time, now crying out about local self-government, the habeas corpus and, the supremacy of the civil power. Such change is proof either of insincerity or of instability.

A NOTABLE EVENT

Last week a grand scene was enacted in the city of Philadelphia. From the days of '76 it has been christened the city of Independance, but last week it again became the Mecca of Liberty. From every portion of this great nation pilgrims came to take part in and witness the new light ings of the fires of Freedom which proved to be the grandest political pageant of this decade. In the character of the participants, in the grandeur of the idea which they embodied, in the incidents by which the occasion was attended, it was unsurpassed among political events, and in striking contrast to the feeble show of mongrels who assembled in Cincinnati to barter principles and honer for a mere chance of office and plunder.

The Raleigh News is an excellent Democratic paper—one of the best that reaches our office, but like too many of the gentry who are running organs of that prrty it is too apt to "go off half cocked." If the News man will take a glass of ice water and then re-read the article he complains of in our paper he will see that his quarter column editorial in reference to it is as uncalled for as it is in bad taste. We denounced the rumors, not the editor. Would it not be well for the latter to put in practice a little of the "editorial courtesy and propriety" he so flippantly discourses about?

SENATOR SUMNER'S ATTACK ON PRESIDENT GRANT.

The sensation of the past week has been the fierce attack of CHARLES SUMNER on President GRANT. It is well known to the country that the arrogant Senator has been angry with the President for more than two years. The trouble began about the Greek mission. Mr. SUMNER demanded the control of the appointment as his right by virtue of his chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Relations. He wanted a personal friend of his appointed. Then came the removal of Mr. MOTLEY from the mission to England. Mr. SUMNER threatened that if he was removed it would end all friendly relations between him and the Administration. For good and sufficient reasons the removal was made, and from that day to this the Massachusetts Senator has omitted no occasion to open the floodgates of his wrath against the President. The country understands all this and knows that it is only a personal quarrel—nothing more.

Hoping to have revenge, he carefully prepared a speech full of acrid bitterness and delivered it in the Senate just a few days before the Philadelphia Convention. The ostensible object of the fierce attack was to prevent GRANT's renomination. Vain and impotent effort! He might as well have opposed his single breath to the North wind. The people have carefully watched the Administration from the beginning and they have decided that GRANT can govern the country and they in Convention assembled at Philadelphia resolved that he shall do so for another four years.

The speech of Mr. SUMNER is very bitter. He has concentrated in it all the gall and wormwood of many months distillation. But when we come to analyze it, we find it little but flaming rhetoric. All his objections, all his grounds of assault, all his criticisms upon the Administration amount to rancorous words, inflamed invective, rhetorical fancies and indignant imagination. For facts, for figures, for solid ground we search in vain. No where does it refer to a principle. No where does it touch the great work of the Administration. He ignores every question of statesmanship and descends to petty personal matters. In raking the gutters he has overshot the mark. The people too well know that in every department of public affairs President GRANT's Administration has been eminently successful, and that it has given the country great prosperity and tranquility. They know all this too well to be drawn from his support by speeches so distinguished for being the mere vent of personal spleen.

Alas for CHARLES SUMNER! This envenomed personal attack is entirely unworthy of his fame. He has done much for the country, but others have done at least as much. He is entitled to consideration, but others are entitled to quite as much as he. Who is it that he now assails? The answer comes from the loyal millions all over the land: the man who led the armies of the nation triumphantly to victory; the man who saved it from the deadly assaults of armed treason; the man who took command in the hour of gloom and disaster and conducted us to glorious success; the man who, as the saviour of the country, was called like WASHINGTON, its father, by the spontaneous voice of the people to the Presidential chair; the man whose administration has been distinguished by tranquility, prosperity and progress;—in short, the calm, modest, self-poised hero -President, equally successful in war and in peace. Does Senator SUMNER suppose the people have forgotten these illustrious services? Does he imagine that patriotism and gratitude are dead?

Let CHARLES SUMENR take his course As much as we have honored him in the past, if we must part with him now, so be it. It is for the Republican Party to say what Republicanism is, and then it is for him to say whether he will trample upon the record of his life, and ally himself with the foes of every cause he has ever advocated.

OUR NATIONAL STANDARD BEARERS.

The representatives of the great Republican Party of this nation, in Convention assembled last week in Philadelphia, nobly performed their duty in selecting for standard bearers men in whom the people have implicit confidence, and, in presenting a platform worthy the time and the age. The country, having had "one term of GRANT," was so well satisfied that it demanded his renomination. That demand was responded to by the delegates from every State of the Union unanimously voting for him. The nomination for Vice President is equally satisfactory. The life long efforts and the eminent public services of HENRY WILSON of Massachusetts in the cause of Freedom and Progress, make him a fitting successor to that faithful and popular man of the West—SCHUYLER COLFAX. The latter was the first to congratulate his succesful rival on his nomination, meeting him in the Senate Chamber and cordially shaking him by the hand. He at once sent the following telegram to the Convention:

I support your ticket cheerfully. Men are nothing, principles everything. Nothing must arrest Republican triumph, until equality under the law, like liberty from which it springs, is universally acknowledged, and the citizenship of the humblest becomes a sure protection against outrage and wrong, as was Roman citizenship of old.

SCHYLER COLFAX.

In our next we will give a full synopsis of the proceedings. The enthusiasm was unbounded and the nominations are most cordially endorsed by the loyal masses of the country everywhere. With this ticket and platform success is certain, and four years more of peace and prosperity is assured.

TOD R. CALDWELL has proved to be a faithful Governor. He has guarded the honor of the State and protected the interests of the people. The latter will call upon him in August next to fill the Executive Chair for another term.

GEN. GRANT'S PRINCIPLES.

The following extracts from the published correspondence of Gen. GRANT explain the principles which guide him in condneting the affairs of the nation:

I care nothing for promotion so long as our arms are successful.—Grant to Sherman, February, 1862.

If my course is not satisfactory remove me at once. I do not wish in any way to impede the success of our arms.—Grant to Halleck, Feb. 6, 1862.

No theory of my own will ever stand in the way of my executing in good faith any order I may receive from those in authority over me.—Grant to Secretary Chase, May 29, 1862.

This is a republic where the will of the people is the law of the land.—Grant's letter to President Johnson, August, 1867.

I shall have no policy of my own to interpose against the will of the people.—Grant's letter, May 29, 1868.

Human liberty is the only true foundation of human government.—Grant's letter to the citizens of Memphis.

Let us have peace.—Grant's letter. Mah 29, 1868.

HENRY WARD BEECHER ON CHARLES SUMNER.

In the last number of the Christian Union, edited by HENRY WARD BEECHER, the recent attack of Mr. SUMNER on the President is severely reprobated. Mr. BEECHER very correctly says that no man who hates is fit to judge another. And as SUMNER has raised a monument of his hatred to GRANT, he commends to his notice a passage in a book which he fears the Senator does not read as often as he should, to wit:

"He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now. He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is no occasion of stumbling in him. But he that hateth his brother is in darkness and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes."

COMPANIONS FOR GREELEY.

The Woman's Equal Rights party, with Mrs. WOODHULL for President and FRED DOUGLAS for Vice President, held a ratification meeting in New York on Thursday last. Mrs. WOODHULL made a speech. She said it was the first time in history that men and women had congregated together for political purposes. She recognized it as something unusual for a person bearing a nomination for the highest office in the gift of the people to appear in advocacy of their own cause. But she had a contempt for conventionalities. Her address was a tirade against the tyranny of wealth.

Among the many accessions which the Republican party has received within the last twelve months, none are more valuable than Messrs. E. B. Saunders, Geo. T. Duffy, Robert Ward, Edgar Ward and Major Russell, of Onslow county. These young men have cast their lot with the Republican party. The crimes of the Democracy drove them from the support of that party. These gentlemen are men of first rate ability, high character, and are among the best citizens of their county. Their influence will work a complete revolution in Onslow for the Republican ticket. All honor to young men who have the courage to ally themselves with the party of progress and peace. Social ostracism and proscription for opinion's sake is fast playing out. —Era.

The same accessions are being made to our ranks in almost every county in the State. With good local nominations we can achieve a decided victory in August. There is no doubt about it.

Gen. ASPINNALL has resigned his membership of the New York Liberal Republican Committee. He says:

However highly the candidate of the as Cincinnatti Convention may be esteemed a citizen, and may have justly earned an enviable reputation for benevolence and kind-heartedness, certainly the facility with which he swings around the circle and indulges in extraordinary summersaults entitles him to be considered as the "first acrobat" in the political circus.

How far he may be successful in the present attempt—that of riding two horses at once—remains to be seen.

WILLIAM LOYD GARRISON, the early and life long friend of Senator SUMNER, and the great pioneer in the cause of Facedom, on reading the latter's arraignment of the President wrote him a letter, pronouncing his attack ill-judged, ill-timed and extravagan., and telling him that he does not represent Massachusetts in his sweeping impeachment.

How doth the busy Horace G.
Improve each shining hour;
And look for office every day
In every party's power.
How skillfully he builds his sells,
How neat he spreads his soap,
And when Protection won't avail
Takes Free Trade as his hope.

The present managers of the New York Tribune are to be pitied. Their task for six months to come is to eat the words they have uttered for the last four years. Crow stuffed with snuff is not a circumstance with this dish. A sympathising friend offers them his peppermint flask.

The Republican Party presents a candidate for President who has been tried in every capacity in this great Republic; and the candidate for Vice President is the leading Republican statesman of the age. The American people know and have confidence in both.

Congress has passed a bill dividing North Carolina into two Judicial Districts, and Judge R. P. DICK, of the State Supreme Court, has been appointed Judge for the Western Circuit, and V. S. LUSKE, Esq., as Solicitor.

The Democrats complain that we are burdened with taxation. True; but for every dollar levied since 1860 the Democratic party is responsible, for if there had been no Democratic party there would have been no war and no debt.

Who does not remember that CHARLES SUMNER made fierce opposition to the renomination of ABRAHAM LINCOLN just as he has done to that of General GRANT. His failure now was as great as it was then.

Oregon opens the campaign with a splendid Republican victory. North Carolina is next in order.

Senator SUMNER's speech will be almost entirely without influence with Republicans, because he has separated himself from the party, and forgotten everything but his personal hostility to GRANT.

A Bachelor's Union has been formed at Kalamazoo, Michigan.—Exchange.

We never heard of but one bachelor's union that was successful, and that was called marriage.

Correspondence.

First Congressional District.

The Republicans of the first Congressal District met in Convention at Plymouth N. C., on 23rd day of May, 1872, Col. S. T. Carrow, Chairman of the District Executive Committee called the meeting to order, whereupon Col. D. Guyther, of Washington county, was made temporary chairman and made the following a Committee upon permanent organization: H. E. Stilley, F. W. Bell, P. K. Jones, E. F. Baxter, R. Etheridge, W. O. The Chairman then appointed one gentleman from each county a Committee on credentials.

The Committee on organization reported as permanent officers of the Convention Col. S. T. Carrow, as President and Fayton Taylor, John W. Sessom, H. H. Hobbs, George Sears, Richard Etheridge, Fleteher Hare, J. P. Reynolds, T. A. Ray, Jas. M. Mullen, Louis Hilliard, Wm. Atkinson, J. J. Ray, and T. A. Sykes as Vice Presidents and John M. Foote, Willis. H. Bagley, Hugh Cale and D. W. Newsom as Secretaries.

A waiting the report of the Committee on Credentials the meeting was addressed by many prominent speakers, in which was evinced the greatest harmony and accord of feeling in the support of the great principles of the most beneficial political organization that has over existed on the American continent.

The Committee on Credentials reported through their Chairman that all the counties was properly represented except Hyde and that there was a contention as to the proper delegates from Camden county, there being two sets appointed, and recommended that the delegates appointed by the last meeting should be seated in Convention. After hearing the pros and cons the Convention adopted the report of the Committee by a large majority.

The nomination of candidates was announced in order C. L. Cobb, J. J. Martin, Louis Hilliard and D. McD. Lindsey, was put in nomination and the Hon. C. L. Cobb, receiving the the nomination, on motion of Col. Lindsey it was made unanimous.

The meeting then proceeded to the selection of a Presidential Elector of the First District, when Dr. E. Ransom, of Tyrrel, was chosen.

On motion, Louis Hilliard, of Pitt county, and Thos. A. Sykes, of Pasquotank, was chosen delegates to the National Convention to meet at Philadelphia on the 5th of June, 1872, and J. B. Respess of Beaufort county, and D. W. Newsom of Hertford county, alternates.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

Resolved, That we, the Republicans of the first Congessional District, do reiterate our firm devotion to the Republican party and believe that a support of its principles alone can promote peace, prosperity and protection to all the citizens of our beloved State.

Resolved, That we earnestly and heartily endorse and pledge our support to the platform and principles as enunciated by the Convention held at Raleight, N. C., on the 17th of April. 1872 and pledge to the candidates then nominated our hearty and undivided support.

Resolved, That in U. S. Grant we have a faitful and efficient executive officer, who by his patriotism and integrity have embalmed himself in the affections of all lovers of peace and good government, and we shall hail with grateful hearts an evidence of appreciation by his unanimous renomination at Philadelphia, on the 5th June.

Resolved, That in John Pool we recognize a true and tried friend of Peace and equal rights, and return to him our undivided gratitude for his efforts in behalf of the terrified, down-trodden citizens of our beloved State.

Resolved, That to C. L. Cobb, who in the times of our greatest oppression, came to our relief from midnight assassins, we give but a faint expression of our confidence and gratitude in tendering to him the unanimous nomination of this Convention for a seat in the 44th Congress of the United States, and ask a vigorous support for him of all lovers of protection and peace.

6. That we do unqualifiedly condemn as unfair and unjust the gerrymandering division of North Carolina Congressional and Senatoral District for political purposes, by which a fair representation of the majority of voters cannot be had.

On motion a vote of thanks was tendered to the citizens of Plymouth, for their kindness and hospitality.

On motion, a vote of thanks was tendered to the presiding officer and Secretaries, for the prompt and impartial manner in which they severally discharged their duty.

On motion, the proceedings of this meeting be furnished to The NORTH CAROLINIAN and The Carolina Era, with a request that they publish them and request all Republican papers in the State to copy. The meeting was then declared adjourned, determination and hope on every countenance.

Our Washington Letter. No. 25.

Washington, D. C., June 6th, 1872.

THE PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION.

All accounts concur that the Convention is an assemblage of the representative men of our country. Eye-witnesses bear testimony that a more intelligent and solid assemblage has rarely gathered in the United States. Considering that the nomination of Grant was a foregone conclusion there is very considerable enthusiasm manifested. The speech of Garrett Smith was not only effective in itself, but remarkable as coming from a veteran in the abolition cause and one who had long retired from partisan conflicts.

ANOTHER PRESIDENTIAL CONVENTION.

The Free Trade men who lost the control of the Cincinnati Convention by manoeuvres of Gratz Brown and the Greeley strikers are determined not to submit to the swindle. It is understood that another Convention will be called to meet at Cincinnati on the fourth of July for the purpose of nominating candidates and presenting them to the Baltimore Democratic Convention for its acceptance. Thus our Democratic friends will be placed like the ass between two bundles of hay, and it is hard to tell by which side they will be attracted. It is of no consequence however which way the minority sides, for it is believed that the Republican party has a clear majority in a sufficient number of States to secure the election of Grant.

THE NEW REFORM IN SIGHT.

President Grant before he signs any of the numerous private bills that are annually hurried through Congress without much consideration, has established a practice of sending everyone to the Department to which it appertains for a thorough and rigid examination before stgning the same. This new system has already enabled him to detect several frauds, for he has vetoed some half dozen private bills already, and the care thus taken has not only saved the Government large sums, but has prevented the the establishment of precedents which would have cast much more.

DIMUNITION OF OFFICERS.

The new tariff and internal revenue bill which, however, will not go fully into effect until January next, provides for a large reduction of internal revenue officers. In the place of some three hundred collectors and assessors there will be only eighty, and other officers are returned in the same proportion. Thus without ostentation these great civil service reforms are being carried out, and very soon the people will not only derive the benefits of deminished taxation, but also a great diminution of our national expenditures.

The first examination under the new civil service rules in the Treasury Department took place yesterday. There were 21 contestants for three vacancies in the Third Auditor's office. Another trial for vacancies in 6th Auditor's office takes place to day.

The War Department is completing arrangements for starting the expedition for the survey of the North West boundary. Experienced engineers will be detailed to accompany the expedition.

Gen. S. A. Duncan, Assistant Commissioner of Patents has resigned his position.

A Letter from Currituck.

POPLAR BRANCH, Currituck Co., N. C., June 1st, 1872.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

Political letters are the order of the day just now; but thinking that a non-political letter, a letter in regard to the crops and fruit growing in this section, the county "by the Sea," would be of interest to your many readers, especially those at a distance, I will intrude upon your columns a little, and give you an account of how we are progressing.

In the days before the War, Corn was our staple—in fact almost the only thing rrised on the farm; but we are gradually getting into a new regime; emigration has come amongst us, led thither by the cheapness of land, its adaptability to trucking and fruit-growing, and last but not least by the salubrity of our climate. Our own citizens are hospitable and kind, and are gradually getting infused into them a spirit of enterprise and go-ahead-iveness. Again the creature comforts are cheap and abundant —fish of all kinds, wild ducks and geese, oysters clams etc.

We are just in the midst of the stawberry season. Large quantities have been raised and shipped to Northern markets. Our largest growers are Dr. H. G. Land, Mr. James Williams and Mr. D. C. Lindsay.

The Peach crop is more than promising. Col. Stockton of Penn., is the largest grower, and is said to have shipped last year $10,000 worth of Peaches. He will ship this Season as much if not more. In addition to his Peach orchard, the Col. has a fine orchard of Pears, and a large grape-vineyard comprising about six hundred vines. He is also growing goose berries, and will ship largely of early Irish potatoes and later in the season, egg-plants.

Mr. T. T. Whitcomb of New York lately a citizen of your place, purchased a farm in this section last Fall, and out of Chaos has made for himself a perfect little Paradise. He intends eventually to go into fruit culture, but this year has devoted his attention to trucking. He has shipped largely of early Peas, and and will also ship largely of Irish Potatoes, Cabbages, Beans, Tomatoes and Egg-plant. In addition to this Mr. Whitcomb has fourteen thousand hills of Water Melons growing finely.

Mr. W. G. Young of Penn. purchased a farm last Winter, and has planted out eleven hundred Pear trees, the most approved varieties, and two thousand grape-vines. Dr. H. G. Land is also a large grape-grower.

Mr. D. C. Lindsey, one of our old citizens has a large Peach orchard, comprising 6000 trees. This is the first season that his trees have borne, and he will probably realize handsomely from them.

We are already shipping Irish potatoes and those who have planted largely will of course make fine profits.

Crops of all kinds are looking fine.

This country is well adapted to trucking and fruit-growing the soil sandy with clay subsoil, and Nature and Art have given us fine means of transportation. On one side of us is North River very many Steamers navigate this to and from Norfolk through the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal. Those who live on the river side ship that way. On this side is Currituck Sound, the prettiest sheet of water in North Carolina. The Steamer Cygnet, Capt. Cain, runs from Norfolk here, Van. Slyck's Landing, every other day, and she always leaves us Winter or Summer, loaded with freight.

We need it little more Northern enterprise amongst us, and with a few more sterling men like T. T. Whitcomb, we will vie with any other county in the State.

We have no Ku Klux here, and Politics bothers us but little.

CURRITUCK.

Hon. J. W. Etheridge Declines the Senatorial Nomination in the 2nd. District.

Hon. H. E. Stilley Chairman Republican 2nd. Senatorial Convention.

MANTEO, DARE Co., N. C., June 31st, 1872.

Sir: I have just received your communication informing me of my nomination to represent (if elected). this Senatorial District in the next Senate of N. C.

I am very much gratified that my Republican friends repose such confidence in me. But I am compelled to decline accepting the nomination. I am very sorry to have so to do, for nothing would give me more pleasure than to canvass my district and fight Nullifying—Ruie or Ruin—Secession Ku Klux Democracy but my business affairs are in such shape and to such an extent that it renders it absolutely impossible: Furthermore the Legislature convenes at a time when I am most pressed in business affairs and as some of my friends complained in consequence of my absence from the Senate in 1868 and 69 of about one month, I cannot again under any circumstances consent to be placed in a similar situation.

I promise my friends to use all my influence in the least but greatest county of Dare for Gov. Tod R. Caldwell the State Ticket. our Senators and United States Grant.

Very respectfully, your obt. servant.
J. W. ETHERIDGE.

The English journals are amazed at the nomination of Victoria C. Woodhull to the Presidency, regarding it as a serious matter. They argue that if one Victoria rules Great Britain another might perchance rule in this country.

Congress.

On the 3rd inst., in the Senate long speeches were made by Messrs. Logan, Carpenter, and others, in reply to Mr. Sumner.——The House of Representatives had only a brief session to-day. No report has been made by the Conference Committee on the Tax and Tariff bill.

On the 4th inst., the Senate spent the day in debate on the Southern Mail Contract bill, without any action.——The House was not in session. The President has issued an Amnesty Proclamation under the late act of Congress.

On the 5th inst., The House and Senate agreed to the Conference report on the Tariff and Tax bill. The Senate Committee made a report on the New York Custom-house investigation.

On the 6th inst in the Senate Mr. Chandler replied to Sumner. The Fortification Appropriation bill was passed.——In the House nothing of interest.

On the 7th inst., the Senate defeated an attempt to have a minority report made on the New York Custom House. An exciting discussion was held during a night session.——In the House the Ku Klux bill was discussed.

Dr. Greeley has written a letter to the secretary of a Western club, in which he says: "I have some experience in white hats. To prevent the ravages of the moth upon this important campaign institution, first catch the moth, cover it with a thick coating of gum shellac, and feed it upon the chippings from a merino calf. Whoever says that this is an infringement on any patent is a liar."—St. Louis Dem.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

Bankrupt Notice.
Alcenia House.
A Valuable Fishery for sale.
Bingham School.
Proposals wanted for Building Church.

Local and Personal.

☞The Wheat harvest has commenced.

☞Huckle berries are coming to town.

☞New subscriptions, with the cash in advance, are still in order.

☞The farmers are busy working their corn and cotton. Both are at least two weeks later than usual.

☞Out in tassel—our early corn. Roasting ears will soon be one of the luxuries of our table. Those of our Northern friends who would enjoy the "good things" of life should move South.

☞The favor of our Currituck correspondent is published with pleasure. Let us hear from him again, and by all means let us have similar letters from other counties of the District.

☞Our eloquent young friend JOHN A. SMALL delivered an appropriate Address at the Oak Grove Church in Perquimans county, on Sabbath last. A number of the "young folks" of Elizabeth City were present. They bring a favorable report of Mr. SMALL's effort.

☞The man who expects the party to work for him must do some work for the party. The candidates who are anxious for the party's organ to make special efforts for them will be less apt to be disappointed if they make a little effort towards sustaining the organ. There are folks that work both ways, and this is one of them.

☞By his letter in another column of the CAROLINIAN it will be seen that Hon. J. W. ETHERIDGE declines the nomination for Senator in the Second District. His business engagements make it impossible for him to perform the duties of the position satisfactorily. His Republican friends regret this as he is a tower of strength. He pledges them, however, his best efforts in the canvass.

☞The kind words received from different parts of the District are appreciated. We are glad to know that our paper is meeting with increasing favor, and that it is exerting an influence in the right direction. We feel that we know what is demanded and we intend to meet the requirements of the great campaign just opening with all the ability we can command.

☞We have received letters since the nomination, from a number of prominent gentlemen in different parts of the District, expressing great satisfaction in the election of C. W. GRANDY and J. L. CHAMBERLAIN as our Senatorial Standard bearers. They are both active Republicans, effective on the stump, and the indications are that they will beat their Democratic competitors—SPEED and SKINNER by a handsome majority.

☞By the advertisement in this week's paper it will be seen that the Nag's Head Hotel will open on July 1st and that the comfortable Schooner "Siam" will make regular trips twice a week. We predict that Capt. ACKERLY will be found "the right man in the right place." He possesses the genial qualification to make guests at his Hotel or passengers in his Boat feel comfortable and "at home."

☞We are now in the "big potato" season. Thus far in size, J. CLARK PERRY is ahead. He has laid some very fine specimens on our table. Next comes our enthusiastic "trucking" friend M. B. CULPEPPER. His samples sent us are very fine. Though a trifle smaller than those of Mr. PERRY, he claims that he has nearly one-third more in a hill. Good! But he owes his success to his industrious "right hand bower" Mr. THOMAS BROTHERS, who takes as much interest in cultivating his potatoes and cabbages as we do in editing the NORTH CAROLINIAN.

☞Alas! the strawberries are about "playing out." We feel sorry for there isn't a more seductive dish than a plate of this cool, crimson fruit—fragrant luscious and melting. And with the cream and sugar we always add, we don't remember the occasion when, after demolishing one plate of the palate-pleasing mixture, we did not feel like saying, "Yes m'am, we'll take another." It is true that epicures insist that the strawberry, to be appreciated in its full flavor, should be eaten alone in its naked sweetness, but tradition has too intimately associated with it the cream jug and sugar bowl for their charms to be withstood.

☞It is not six months ago since the Democrats of this county were bitter in their hostility to HORACE GREELY. Now, following the lead of our speech making friend Dr. SPEED, they are pretty generaly putting on white hats and hurrahing for him. As for the Doctor we can understand why he takes the "Liberal" dose so readily. Though for the last six years co-operating with the Democracy, he has all the while hated them with his old Whig fervor, and is glad of an opportunity to change the name, even if he is obliged to swallow every essential principle promulgated and established by the Radical Republicans.

☞Absent this week—a number of our Lawyers. They are attending Currituck Court.

☞Pursuant to the legally published notice there was a meeting of the Albemarle Agricultural Society held in the Court House at this place on Saturday last. All the preparatory steps required for permanent organization were perfected when an adjournment was made to Thursday the 20th inst. at which meeting the election of officers will take place. Let all who have subscribed stock attend, for each subscriber has a vote in the election.

☞We have received a caustic letter from Dr. J. J. SMITH, of Martin, complaining of the appearance of his name in the proceedings of the Senatorial convention held at Plymouth on the 23rd ult., He says that if his name was presented to said Convention as a candidate it was most positively without his knowledge or consent, and that he had repeatedly declared that he was not a candidate and that he would not accept a nomination if tendered. Of course we know nothing about the matter. We only published the proceedings as officially sent us. The Doctor disclaims being a candidate for any office.

☞We have received a letter from "One who has read the NORTH CAROLINIAN from the beginning," taking exceptions to some of our editorial articles. While we thank our correspondent for his candor we must frankly say to him that he is mistaken. The NORTH CAROLINIAN is a much better friend of the South and of the Southern people than any of the so called Conservativa papers in the State. It is the advocate of Educational and Industrial Progress—giving a most cordial support to everything calculated to promote and advance the material interests of this whole Southern country. It isn't afraid to speak plainly and to tell the truth. It is neither sycophant, flatterer, or demagogue. But it is the exponent of the political policy, the practical carrying out of which is vitally essential to the prosperity of North Carolina. It is folly to think that we can have peace or progress here with a State government in antagonism with the National Administration. At this stage of affairs in the South the two should be, nay they must be in harmony. Every interest demands it, and the man or paper opposing it, either by vote or influence, acts unwisely to say the least.

The lady replied to him, thanking him for the civility of his reply, and reminding him that, so far as she was informed, he had taken a somewhat loftier attitude than was occupied by the Almighty. DEATHS.

JONES.—Died at his residence in Plymouth, N. C., on the morning of the 10th inst., Judge EDMOND W. JONES.

A PITIFUL CONDITION.—It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitaul condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no spacific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure. In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two to sink afterward into a more pitible condition than ever (as it assurelly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant were resorted to,) but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a centfury, is easily given Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time by administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain-head of physica strength and energy, the great organ upon which al the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persevere until the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be the materia, of flesh and muscle, bone and nerve and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery pabulum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. AGRICULTURAL, HORTICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC MATTERS.

How to Choose a Cow.

On this subject the Working Farmer says: There is always some risk in buying a cow, and the more previous character and history we know nothing, for there are no signs of excellence. A rough, ill-shaped cow is often a noble animal, yet there are a few points, generally agreed upon by experienced farmers, which it is well to consider before purchasing. A small boned head and neck are better than large. Long legs make too wide a gap between udder and milk sail, and long-legged cows are seldom good feeders, but wander about too much. A slender rather than a thick neck, a straight back, wide ribs and brisket, are to be sought for. The form of the cow should be large in proportion to head, neck, and legs, though not extremely large; and the hind quarters should be full and large out of proportion, indicative of milking qualities. Medium sized cows, all things considered, prove the best milkers for the amount of food they consume. The color of the hair has probably nothing to do with the milking qualities, and good looks should be regarded little in purchasing dairy stock. As to the color of the skin, a yellow, approaching that of gold is the best, any color within the ears—this being rich milk are very apt to go dry—and, withal, a soft flexible skin over the ribs and rump, is also sought. The udder should be large, soft and full of veins, stretching forward along the belly, and the teats be large and not crowded together. Test the cow's disposition and inquire about it. Irritable and nervous cows are unpleasant to handle, and almost always scanty milkers. Something can be ascertained from the looks and motions. Large, mild eyes, easy quiet motions when driven, and gentleness when handled, indicate good breeding. What butchers term "good handling" is an important quality in a cow, for it indicates not only good dispositions, but easy fattening properties in the dairy are over."

How to Prevent Cut-Worms.

The late distinguished horticulturist, Wm. White, author of "Gardening for Profit," published, many years ago, the following simple and efficient remedy:

We know it is effective from having tried it. Unless worms happen to be in the trench when made, the plants will be perfectly safe. Mr. White says: On the approach of your intended row of plants make a narrow trench three or four inches deep, and in the bottom of this trench set your plants as usual, and the cut-worms will not go into the trench to injure the plants. The experiment was tried by the writer the past summer, and proved perfectly satisfactory. Some of the plants have become a little wilted, able to resist the enemy, the stalks will be gradually gathered about the whole plat once more before the plants will head by cultivation as well as by hand. I have left about half of the trenches, to be set in the old method, and not one-third to one-half of the plants have been destroyed, while not a single one in the trenches has been injured in it. I had but little faith in the first pointed out to me, but the experiments have satisfied me that it is an efficient one. I don't perceive the reason of the thing, but am convinced of its efficacy.

To make Good Whitewash.

Take half a bushel of good unslacked lime half a bushel, and slake it with warm water (rain-water is convenient) in a forty-gallon barrel. Keep covered while slaking. Use just enough water to slake dry. Let the lime stand for five or six hours to insure being well slacked. If it is lumpy, have a good smooth wash, lime should be sifted through a fine sieve; if to be used on buildings, and fences it is not necessary about siftings. To the lime when well slacked, add enough water to half fill a barrel; then add two gallons of salt, hot; one quarter of grease to make it spread smoothly; four pounds of sulphur, hot to make it stick. The sulphur will also have the same effect. Some use clear salt in making whitewash. We would not, as salt in damp weather will cause the wash to crack and scale off. After applying the whitewash as above, fill the barrel with water, cold or hot, and we have a wash that will stand well for five years. To color pink, use lamb-black; for yellow ochre; for blue, use indigo. Different shades of color vary to suit. If the wash gets too thick, make it thin with water. The older the above mixture becomes, the better it will be, if kept well covered with water, and not allowed to become hard.

Work-shop for Farmers' Boys.

We have done a good deal of talking to farmers to provide a convenient room for a workshop so that boys may have the rudiments of mechanical skill may have opportunity to develope the same. One correspondent, J. W. Lang, says of Mirror and Farmer, that an advantage in repairing implements, husbandry and making your boys stay at home, so far as allowable, is to allow boys to handle tools and get familiar and united with practical knowledge of great use. Genius is developed, applied and time occupied on rainy day and leisure hours, perhaps, devoted to something worse perhaps if not thus usefully employed. We have to try their hand at "making things." I many conveniences as well as luxuries will grow under their inventive provided with tools and opportunity in their use. Many a skillful mechanic dates his earliest inspiration and boyhood days upon the farm and fashioned to use or pleasure some of his imagination with what he kept to make repairs in the house or the fireside.

Remedies for Colic in Horses.

A veterinarian writes: "In some cases of spasmodic colic, after a drink of water, exposure and the like, a dose of laudanum and anti-spasmodic drink is given, and nothing further will be necessary. A good formula it one to two ounces of spirits of nitrous ether, twenty drops of tincture of aconite, and ten ounces of tepid water. In colic from indigestion, constipation and the like, though this may temporarily relieve, it cannot be relied on to do so permanently. It is then preferable to give a laxative (four to six drachms Barbadoes aloes) to clear away the irritating contents of the bowels, and thus remove the cause. In tympanitic (windy colic) an ounce of aromatic spirits of ammonia may be given in from ten ounces of water. In all cases alike copious injections of warm water may be thrown into the rectum at convenient intervals."

"I don't care much about the buggs," said Wamaley to the head of a genteel boarding house, "but the fact is, madam, I haven't the blood to spare; you see that yourself."

A pocket boot-jack has been invented You put your foot into your pocket, give a sprag into the air, and off comes your boot.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalists and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where: and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming, and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3.000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3,000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. The mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3.500, $7.00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 50 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splended barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next, balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A Farm of 200 acres within one mile of Elizabeth City, with good two story dwelling, large barn and stables, and all necessary outhouses, orchard of fine fruit trees, and a large number of ornamental trees and shrubbery around dwelling. This farm is on one of the most public roads in the County—is in a high state of cultivation—has fine and durable fences, &c. Altogether, it is the richest land and most desirable location, anywhere in the neighborhood of the town. Price $6000—one-half cash, balance in easy payments.

J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & Co., Druggists and Gen'l Agents, San Francisco, Cal., and 32 & 34 Commerce St., N. Y.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin. Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the System in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

SUPER-PHOSPHATE.

(We conrt the Chemist's inqury.)

After 23 years' experience in the Fertilizing business, and after establishing a wide reputation for the purity and excellence of his Bone Dust, the subscriber has been induced to prepare a Phosphate suitable to the requirements and every way worthy the attention of the Southern Farmer.

The "MARYLAND" it a juvinator and permanent improver of the soil. It stimulates equal to Peruvian Guano, and sustains equal to Bone, being composed almost entirely of these ingredients, with a very liberal per centage of Potash in the residum. There is no adulterator nor inferior article used—every particle of the Phosphate being of essentiay benefit to the land. Neither pains nor expense have been spared in its preparation, and we claim for it the greatest benefit to the farmer from the smallest outlay.

For Cotton, Wheat and Corn, and as a general stimulant and ailment for worn and impoverished land there can be nothing superior. It is warranted to run as high in Ammonia and higher in Bone Phosphate than any other fertilizer in the market.

Price $50 per ton, in new bags. No charge for delivery.

BONE DUST $45, BONE MEAL $50, DISSOLVED BONE $42, our own manufacture, in new bags; Eastern and Western BONE DUST $35. PERUVIAN GUANO delivered from Peruvian Government Warehouse at lowest rates. No charge for delivery.

TOBACCO SUSTAIN

AND LAND RENEWER.

The Sustain is a specific restorer of the exhausted properties of impoverished and over strained land, and will generously repay the cost of its outlay in the quality and quantity, of the Tobacco Crop, besides permanently improving the soil and raising it to its virgin standard.

It gives vigor to the young plant, promotes its rapid growth, and insures, in the matured crop a thickened, heavy leaf.

It is prepared similarly to the Maryland except that it contains much more potash and other Tobacco forming properties.
